Rethinking New Hire Engagement in a People-Driven Workplace

Empower Your New Talent to Hit the Ground Running

Unlocking the full potential of your new hires not only elevates employee enthusiasm—it dramatically accelerates the success of your business.

Employee engagement is critical as soon as your new employees say “yes” to their job offers, when they are envisioning how they’ll fit into their new organization.

Yet only 9% of managers and 19% of HR professionals feel their organization executes onboarding extremely well today.¹ This assessment suggests the typical onboarding process deserves an imaginative shake-up.

Built to Showcase Your Culture

ADP Onboarding tackles head-on the overwhelming industry standard of treating onboarding as a recruitment afterthought. For truly forward-thinking businesses, finding talent is just the beginning. Engaging them in ways like never before is the new necessity.

We’ll help you and your team get ahead of the curve by engaging and informing new employees, even before their first day. This creates important connections between your new employees, their managers, and their teams that are so critical to productivity and retention.

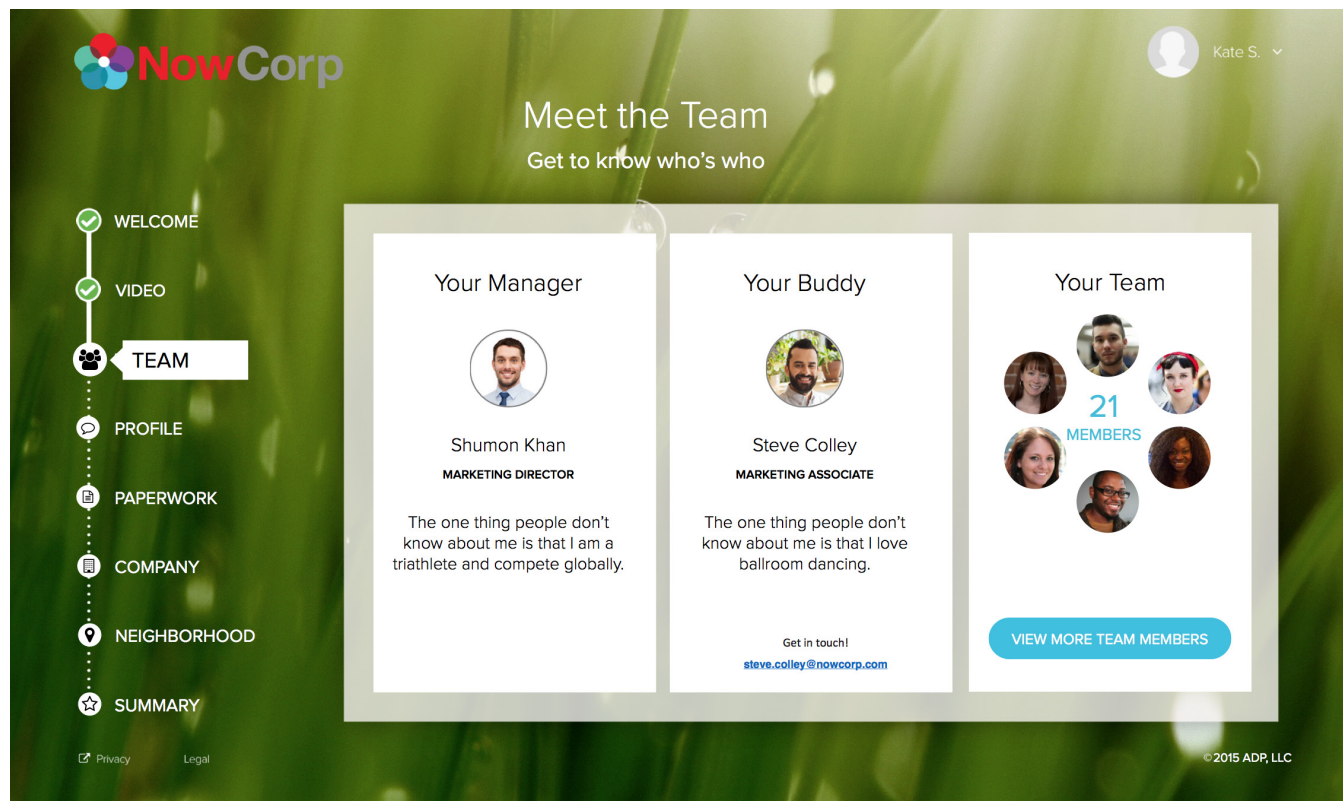

More than 50% of organizations either have no formal onboarding solution or use a home-grown solution that has not been built for the competitive digital age.²
