Beekeeper

Communication app for the non-desk employee

Beekeeper is a mobile-first communication platform that reaches every shift and location through real-time messaging and targeted streams in any language. Managers help keep frontline teams productive and turnover low by automating workflows, while leveraging an analytics dashboard to measure engagement, all without using email. Beekeeper integrates with various ADP® payroll platforms and makes information accessible in one central portal.

Keep control of communication.

Employees communicate on a secure platform — no more sharing company information over text or insecure, noncompliant free social apps. Have control over the information shared among employees, with the ability to remove past employees. Employees can share videos, photos, documents and text on the go in real time.

Share, motivate and inform.

Celebrate success, foster recognition, promote new products and announce new processes. Leverage knowledge and innovate with bottom-up communication. Get ideas straight from the frontlines and capture and share best practices, achievements and experiences — all across employees, departments and locations.

Leverage a social media-inspired interface.

Our simple, intuitive interface is built for frontline employees. It's easy to navigate with no training needed.

Analyze engagement and ID popular content.

Our analytics dashboard enables you to use actionable business intelligence to raise your effectiveness and segment insights by department or location to see what content works best. You can also see which posts are best received and how often they've been read.
